RECENT DEATHS OF VERMONTERS

Giles Rugg of Fairfax died Friday vening. He was 87 years old. He had been exceedingly active for a man of his age, and had been up and about the house every day until that on which he died. The end came as calmly as the old year glides into the new. Mr. Rugg was born in Buck Hollow, January 29, 1823, and his early life was spent as a farmer in the town of Fletcher. Forty years ago he moved to Fairfax village, where he was for some time engaged in the meat business. In 1876 Mr. Rugg was made a trustee of the Bellows academy fund, in which capacity he served many years. On February 12, 1851, he married Lurena Mears Elsworth, who has been his constant companion for nearly 60 years. Mr. Rugg was a man of indefatigable activity, ever extending a helping hand to his less fortunate fellows. He is survived by one brother, William, of St. Albans, his wife and four children, Josephine of Omaha, Neb., Charles of Cheyenne, Wyo., Mrs. Eva Lane and Mrs. Gertrude Gillette, both of
